WATER MAIN PROJECT OFF

ORDER FOR NEW PIPE LINE IS CANCELED BY CITY.

RIGHT-OF-WAY DENIED

U. S. Wright Asks $500 for Use of 10-foot Strip, and Council Declares It Excessive.

Mayor W. O. Garrett this morning announced the cancellation of an order for the cast iron pipe for the new water main from the city's pumping plant, authorized recently by the City Council. At the same time the mayor announced that the cancellation of the order was the result of failure to secure the needed right-of-way through private property.

The city asked a strip of land ten feet wide in order that the water main might be taken from beneath the highway, a change usually demanded by the State Highway Commission before making improvements. Practically all the land under which the city proposed to lay its pipe belongs either to itself or to U. S. Wright. The latter asked $500 for use of a ten-foot strip a half-mile in length. This demand is declared excessive by Mayor Garrett and his associates on the city council.

Estimated at 1-3 Acre.

The mayor estimated that the land required was only about one-third of an acre and that $500 would be much too high even if outright purchase were contemplated. He pointed out that the only interference of any kind with the customary use of the land would be during installation of the pipe and that the city was willing to pay a reasonable sum for any loss resulting.

While the city asks for a right-of-way of ten feet, the pipe itself would occupy only twelve to sixteen inches, and that several feet below the surface.

The proposed contract, the mayor pointed out, asks only for the use of the ten-foot strip of land next to the fence for the purpose of laying and maintaining or of removing the water main.

It is agreed that the pipe line shall be laid and maintained a sufficient depth below the surface of the ground that it will in no wise interfere with the ordinary use of the lands for any agricultural purposes, and it is further agreed that the owner in no wise relinquishes his ownership of the land or the full right to use and enjoy it or to convey it by warranty or otherwise.

City Liable for Damages.

The contract would give the owner the right to "enter upon, over or across said lands at any and all times for the purposes of ingress and egress to and from the adjoining land, with the right at any and all times to build, rebuild, maintain and repair all fences and improvements."

It is further agreed that the city shall be liable for any damages which might result from construction of the pipe line on account of any damages to fences, improvements or growing crops, or injury to livestock, by reason of the negligence or carelessness of the city in laying the pipe line, reconstructing, maintaining or repairing it.

As a further concession the city agreed to construct and maintain at least one fire plug at or near the farm residence of the owner of the land.

The contract would give the city the right of ingress and egress to enter upon the ten-foot strip of land and the land immediately adjacent, "with all necessary men, vehicles, materials, tools and equipment as may be necessary to maintain, reconstruct and repair the pipe line," but the mayor contends that any possible damage is fully covered by the other clauses.

Mr. Wright was out of the city today. His claim said merely: "In view of the kind of contract you want me to sign, I have concluded that $500 is not too much to ask for the right-of-way you want." He himself is a former mayor.

The order for the pipe cannot be placed anew, according to Mayor Garrett, as the offer of the National Cast Iron Pipe Co., the successful bidder, expired on April 20. He could not say what the city's next step would be.

Ray Eckles Fined $5 on Speeding Charge

Ray Eckles was fined $5 and costs by Judge W. L. Johnson in city police court this morning when he withdrew a plea of not guilty to guilty of speeding. Eckles was arrested Sunday night. On Monday he entered a plea of not guilty and the case was set for trial today.

The setting for the tableau was painted by Junior Curnutt and music is supplied by Gertrude Wray at the piano and Beatrice Hansen playing the violin. Mrs. Rathbun is in charge of the tableaux.

DEATH TAKES MRS. DAWSON

ILLNESS OF SEVERAL WEEKS ENDS AT 9:15 P. M.

SERVICES TOMORROW

Funeral Will Be Held at M. E. Church, South—A Wife and Mother of Distinguished Jurists

Mrs. Calista Dawson, widow of the late Judge Lafayette Dawson and one of the oldest residents of Maryville, died at 9:15 o'clock last night at the home at 216 West Second street where she had lived continuously for forty-seven years. She had been ill for several weeks and her death had been expected momentarily, but she displayed surprising vitality.

Mrs. Dawson was the mother of John M. Dawson, present judge of the fourth judicial circuit and of Mrs. Cora E. Fowler of Edina, Mo., both of whom have been at the bedside all during her illness. A sister, Mrs. Josephine Cadwell, also was at the bedside. She had made her home with Mrs. Dawson for the last few years.

Mrs. Dawson was 84 years old. She was born on August 22, 1841, in Grant County, Kentucky, a daughter of Achilles and Nancy Groves Thornhill, natives of Kentucky. The family moved to Illinois and then to Kansas in 1857. In 1861 they came to Nodaway County.

Lived in Lincoln Township

While her home was still at Fort Scott, Kan., she was married to Lafayette Dawson, then a young farmer of Lincoln Township. They settled on a farm near Braddyville, and Mr. Dawson soon thereafter began reading law with Roseberry and Morehouse. He was admitted to the bar in 1866 and both moved to Maryville, where Mrs. Dawson resided until her death.

Mr. Dawson became famous as a lawyer throughout Northwest Missouri and was a most effective pleader before a jury. He was made judge of Alaska, at Sitka, the seat of government, by appointment of President Grover Cleveland, in 1886.

Mrs. Dawson remained in Maryville, but her husband was accompanied to Alaska by their son, John, the present judge.

One act of the elder Judge Dawson while in Alaska brought him into international prominence. It was his condemnation of certain sealing vessels owned and operated by British interests. They were apprehended for poaching seals on United States territory and their vessels were seized and sold. Judge Dawson's action was sustained in the United States Supreme Court.

Son Also Won Honors

Judge Dawson resigned his post in Alaska in the fall of 1888 and returned to Maryville, accompanied by his son, who had been studying law under him and who had been admitted to the bar at Sitka. They opened offices here and shared a large practice. Judge Dawson's death occurred in 1897.

The son followed in his father's footsteps as one of Maryville's leading attorneys. He served three terms as prosecuting attorney and since 1916 has been circuit judge.

A brother of Mrs. Dawson, John G. Thornhill, now dead, was a presiding judge of the Nodaway County Court.

Devoted to Home

While the men of her family were winning to success in their fields, Mrs. Dawson was equally successful in her home, to which she devoted herself entirely, except for her duties in the M. E. Church, South.

Funeral services will be conducted at that church at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon by the Rev. R. E. Mitchell, pastor. Burial will be made at Miriam cemetery.

Miss Andrews to St. Louis Music Meeting

Will Be Joined There Friday by Pupils Who Will Play in Contest Saturday.

Miss Gladys Andrews of the Conservatory faculty of the College will leave tonight for St. Louis where she will attend the three days' convention of the Missouri Federation of Music Clubs. Friday morning Miss Andrews will be joined by Mrs. Harry Mutz and little daughter, Virginia, also Jean Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Montgomery, and Joyce Johnson daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson. The three girls are pupils of Miss Andrews and will play in a junior state contest to be held Saturday morning.

Tarkio Girls Defeat College Last Night

Clarence Bush and Keith Swisher Lose Unanimously in Debate at Tarkio On Child Labor.

The State Teachers College debating team composed of Clarence Bush and Keith Swisher lost to the Tarkio College team at Tarkio last night. The decision of the three judges was unanimous in favor of the Tarkio team, which was made up of two girls.

The Maryville team upheld the affirmative side of the child labor question.

In speaking of the debate today, Thomas R. Wallin, coach of the Maryville team, said that the Tarkio delivery was excellent but that his belief was that the Maryville constructive argument was more sound.

This was the fourth straight victory for the Tarkio team, which has won over the Park College team, which defeated Maryville here several weeks ago.

The trip to Tarkio was made in cars, the team returning about 11 o'clock last night.

BUILDING WORK ON SCHEDULE

LIGHT CO. OFFICE TO BE COMPLETED BY MAY 15.

ORDERS PIPE ORGAN

Ray Cook Hopes To Have New Theater Ready For Formal Opening By July 1.

Work on remodeling the old Empire Theater building is about up to schedule and the lower floor will be ready for the Maryville Electric Light & Power Co., by about May 15, Henry Foster, contractor, in charge of the work, said this morning.

Plastering on the lower floor was completed at noon today. The woodwork in the north half is being finished. Plasterers started work on the upper floor this morning. The plate glass has all been put in place. Seven workmen are now employed in remodeling this building.

Mr. Foster said that the Masonic lodge rooms will probably be ready by June 15.

Work on the new theater building, being erected by J. F. Cook, has been somewhat delayed by the lack of steel, Mr. Foster said. However, a shipment is expected to arrive here today and work will go forward as rapidly as possible.

A pipe organ, similar to the one at the Tootle Theater in St. Joseph, has been ordered, Ray Cook said this morning. It is hoped to have the theater ready for the formal opening July 1. No name has been definitely selected for the new theater. Several have suggested "Main Street," but the theater will not be named for some time.

To Restore Rome to Its Former Grandeur

April 21 Generally Accepted as Traditional Birthday of Eternal City —Launches Renaissance

Rome, April 21—Premier Mussolini today inaugurated his long-heralded program for the restoration of the Eternal City to the grandeur of the golden day of Augustus.

April 21 has been accepted as the traditional birthday of Rome and thus today was chosen for the formal beginning of the twentieth century renaissance.

While the deuce himself will keep an eagle eye on the great work now being undertaken, its detailed accomplishment has been commissioned to the new governor of Rome, Senator Cremonesi.

While the movement for a new and greater Rome was in progress in the Eternal City, all Italy was also celebrating Colonial Day.

REED LEADS FINAL FIGHT

MISSOURI SENATOR BRANDS ITALY IN SPEECH.

VOTE THIS AFTERNOON

Senator Smoot, Utal Republican, Predicts Ratification of Settlement By Substantial Majority.

Washington, April 21.—Assailing Mussolini as a wild beast and Italy's entrance into the World War as a cold-blooded bargaining for territory, Senator James A. Reed, Democrat of Missouri, this afternoon led the final fight to recommitt the $2,042,000,000 Italian debt settlement plan to the Senate finance committee.

Reed urged that faith be kept with the American taxpayers who bought war bonds, by forcing Italy to meet her full obligation and pay 5 per cent interest.

Washington, April 21.—The Senate votes at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the $2,042,000,000 Italian debt settlement.

In an effort to delay action at this session, opponents of the pact will seek to have the settlement recommitted to the finance committee for further investigation into Italy's capacity to pay.

Senator Smoot, Republican of Utah, leader of the administration forces, predicted the debt settlement would be ratified by a substantial majority.

The settlement calls for a repayment of the debt in sixty-two years with an interest rate averaging less than 1 per cent.

San Antonio Again Menaced by Floods

Seven-Foot Rise Sends River on Another Rampage—Lowland Residents Seeking Higher Ground

San Antonio, April 21—A seven-foot rise, sweeping down the Olmos Creek basin this morning, sent the San Antonio River on another steady rise following torrential rains during the last three days and again menaced the city today with a flood.

A flood in 1921 from the Olmos River damaged property to millions in extent and took a toll of fifty-one lives. A steady rain, beginning at 6 o'clock this morning, was continuing. Guards were being posted along the Olmos basin on the outskirts of town to sound the warning if the basin waters reached a dangerous point.

Residents of the lowlands around the meandering river in the city, mostly Mexican families, were again seeking higher ground.

The Olmos River is now very near the 1921 flood stage.

CLAIMS WETS CORRUPT U. S.

NOTED CATHOLIC LEADER CHARGES FRAUD AND BRIBERY.

FARMERS FOR DRY LAW

Master Of New York Grange Pictures Agriculturist As Ardent Friend Of Prohibition.

Washington, April 21.—The wets have corrupted the nation through fraud and bribery in their efforts to modify the dry law, Father Curran of Wilkesbarre, Pa., noted leader of Pennsylvania miners, told the Senate prohibition committee today. He took sharp issue with Father Kasaszun of Suzarnotch, Pa., who recently declared that prohibition had debauched the people in the mining districts.

Washington, April 21.—The American farmer was pictured as an ardent friend of prohibition before the Senate judiciary committee today by S. L. Stravings, master of the New York Grange.

Stravings declared the farmers stood for law obedience and were opposed to any modification of the existing prohibition measure. He was the first farm representative to appear before the committee as a witness for either the wets or drys.

"The farmer's voice disapproves of any attempt to modify the dry law in any way," Stravings said. "We believe in proper enforcement of the law. The farmer challenges the rest of the country, and labor as well, to conserve our national wealth and our national energies.

"We want to know if our saloons are to be reopened and if our grains are to be put into drink instead of food; whether it is for us to get some of the short hours of labor and the luxuries of life."

To Ask Extension of Federal Jurisdiction

Treasury Department Seeks Legislation to Enforce All Laws Within Twelve-Mile Limit.

Washington, April 21.—As a result of the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in New York, the treasury will ask Congress to pass legislation extending the jurisdiction of prohibition and other federal laws to the twelve-mile limit, it was announced today.

The department of justice also will appeal to the Supreme Court the decision dismissing seizure proceedings against the two ships now in custody.

The present situation is extremely confusing as courts in Alabama, Texas and California have held that federal jurisdiction under the dry law extends an hour's sailing distance from shore.

Ponzi Sentenced to Year in Fla. Prison

Latest Fling in High Finance Results In Arrest of Boston's Financial Wizard.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 21.—Charles Ponzi, financial wizard of Boston, Mass., was sentenced to serve a year in the state prison today for his latest fling in high finance.

Ponzi, who came to Florida to reimburse his creditors, following his northern failure, was found guilty of failing to properly record claim deeds on the lots he sold for $10 apiece.

A motion for a new trial was denied.

Orders Adjustment of Mine Relations

Complaint of Alabama Mining Institute, Alleging Discriminations, Upheld by Commerce Commission.

Washington, April 21.—Complaint of the Alabama Mining Institute against preferential rates of coal from western Kentucky and southern Illinois mines to points in Tennessee, Missouri and Texas were sustained today by the interstate commerce committee.

It was alleged that by present differentials, prejudice exists against the producers in the Birmingham district and against coal shipments from Alabama to competing points. The commission ordered an equitable relationship established.

The animals on which the machine is used are said to be pleased with the operation.

Vets Assn. Will Sponsor Picture

Oliver Hardy, who plays the Tin Woodman in "The Wizard of Oz," which will be shown under the auspices of the Veterans Association at the College Monday and Tuesday nights has one of the most unique roles ever played in the screen in this new L. Frank Baum play. Although he is seen as he really is for a few scenes at the beginning of the picture, throughout most of the production he is entirely encased in tin. In this fantastic story, which has been an important part of the reading of everychild in the country, the Woodman, made entirely of tin from his head to his feet, is brought to life by the Wizard. In this picture version of the story, Mr. Hardy has designed a costume for himself that is exactly as it is described in the book. This suit, made entirely of heavy tin plate, fastened by bolts at the joints, weighed more than two hundred pounds, and Mr. Hardy required more than three quarters of an hour to adjust it properly. Getting into the suit, however, was easier than getting out and it is said that it was necessary to keep a tinsmith constantly at the studio to act as valet to Mr. Hardy. "Babe" Hardy confidently expects that his next screen role will call for him to impersonate a steam roller or something of a kindred nature.

FARM GLIMPSES

BY BILLY TILSON.

Mrs. John Cooper, northeast of Burlington, has over 700 head of white leghorn chickens. Some are nearly large enough to fry. Mrs. Cooper says while there is plenty of work attached to raising chickens she is well repaid for her labor.

John Burch of Clearmont shipped out five cars of heavy cattle to the Chicago market Monday. These were a well-finished bunch and Mr. Burch expects to get near the top for them. He has six carloads left on the farm that he is feeding and will have them ready about the first of July. He also has around three carload of hogs that he is getting ready for the market. He says with his stock to look after and his farming that he is kept very busy and could use a couple more men to help at this season of the year.

N. I. Staples, west of Burlington Junction is seeding down 100 acres to grass. He is not feeding any cattle this year and says it is the first time for several years that he hasn't had three or four hundred head on feed at this time of the year. He says if he can't buy them worth the money he will head his blue grass and get a bunch to go on grass after getting the seed.

Rufus Ringold, northwest of Pickering, was busy disking his ground yesterday. Mr. Ringold has a fine bunch of young lambs and would like to see a rain as grass is growing very slow.

Dave Godsey, southwest of Hopkins, is plowing his ground for corn. He is using five big draft horses on the plow and he turns over several acres a day.

The farmers in the Clearmont community seemed to be all in the fields Monday and Tuesday. They were getting their ground ready for corn planting. The ground is working in fine shape but a rain is badly needed for the grass. Oats that were sown before the storm and which a good many thought would have to be resown are coming fine and will be a good stand, a large acreage being sown up there.

J. Barrett, northeast of Clearmont, is milking twelve head of Jerseys and has eight more that will soon freshen. Mr. Barrett sells his cream to the Swift Company. He has fifty head of early spring pigs from six big motherly sows and the litters from these sows last year produced 425 pounds of pork which was sold during the year. Mr. Barrett says the raising of the pigs have been a better proposition than milking the cows while they pay a nice profit.

R. D. Blain, southeast of Clearmont, has his oats sown and is now getting his ground ready for corn. He expects to commenme planting soon if warm weather continues. He is putting out quite an acreage this year.

J. A. Griffey, near Clearmont, was running three disks yesterday. Ab has two hired men and says he has plenty of work for all. His oats are coming up and looking green.

Robert Dew, northeast of Burlington Junction has just finished building a new brooding house for his brooders. Mrs. Dew has a nice flock of young chickens at the present.

STATE LETTER GIVEN TO FIVE

FOUR STUDENTS AND ONE TEACHER HONORED.

TOTAL NOW IS SEVEN

Emblem to Lawrence Wray, Beatrice Puckett, Florence Wray, Sarradah Davis, and Miss Bookman.

Five State letters were awarded this morning at the Maryville High School to four students and a member of the faculty. They were presented to Lawrence Wray, Beatrice Puckett, Florence Wray, Sarradah Davis, and to Miss Ruth Bookman.

This brings the number of state letters awarded at the Maryville High School to seven. Several days ago a letter was given to Leola Miller and Mary Todd.

The letters are given on the basis of athletic work, student activities and scholarship.

Lawrence Wray, who is an advanced junior and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Wray, is the first boy in High School here to receive a letter. He holds a number of distinct honors. He is president of the student body, president of the Hi-Y Club and former president of the Claytonian Literary Society. By vote of the student body last fall he was named the most ver- School. Wray has a good scholastic School. Wray has a good scholaristic standing and takes a great interest in school affairs. He has taken active part in orchestra and band work and displays talent along the dramatic line. He is an enthusiastic supporter of athletic events.

Miss Beatrice Puckett is an advanced junior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Puckett. In athletics she has been most prominent, having been captain of girl's basketball and by the vote of the student body last fall was chosen as the most athletic girl. She is president of the Girls' Reserve organization.

Miss Florence Wray is an advanced junior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Wray. In girl athletic events she holds a good record and is an active member of various literary organizations.

Miss Sarradah Davis is an advanced senior and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Davis. Miss Davis has qualified in every way through her school work and activities to win a letter.

A teacher's State letter was awarded to Miss Ruth Bookman of the High School faculty. Miss Bookman is coach in girl athletics and instructor in French. She has been a supporter of athletics and other phases of school life, but a great amount of credit is to be given to her coaching work and the fine team she has built up.

Play at the College Takes Well Last Night

All Members of Cast Good in, "The Whole Town's Talkin," for Tower Benefit.

"The Whole Town's Talkin'" presented at the State Teachers College last night, was a riotous and successful student production. Mrs. Harold R. O'Banion, as the superficial mother; Fred King, as the gay father with an inventive mind; and Miss Mildred Omar, the vivacious daughter, made an interesting family group in which the daughter's two suitors, Orville Adams, who was the "scream" of the evening, and Fred Street, the polished "man of the world," played important parts. The dashing motion picture star, played by Miss Julia Caldwell, and the highly dramatic motion picture director, Morris Chick, were especially good. Miss Georgia Poynter and Miss Susie Rankins, who were friends of the daughter, added much to the zest and color of the play, as did the maid, played by Miss Hazel Hawkins. The cast, also, included Miss Rebecca Briggs, the dancing teacher, and Burdette Yeo, the taxi driver.

The play, which was directed by Miss LaVeta McClanahan, was presented to a large and appreciative crowd.

The play was given for the purpose of raising money to be used for this year's Tower, the College annual.

Best Politician Is "Servant of People"

House Messenger Believes Open Declaration of Republicanism or Democracy Doesn't Pay.

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—The canniest politician at the capital, if you ask him whether his politics are Democratic or Republican, will smile and answer:

"I'se a servant of the people, Sir, just a servant of the people."

That's Harry, doorkeeper and messenger of the House ways and means committee. His full name is Harry Parker, although few know anything but the Harry. Ever since William McKinley was chairman of the ways and means committee, for 38 years, Harry has served the people as guardian of the committee door.

Sunshine Politics.

"Folks come here to work who talk's a lot about being Republicans or Democrats," says Harry, and he doesn't mean the elected members of Congress although he could, with reason. "And pretty soon they come walking by all dressed up and they tell somebody, 'I USED to have that job right there.' My politics is just to scatter sunshine and be a servant of the people, and I still got my job."

Harry was born at Washington's home, Mt. Vernon, where his father was a watchman for many years.

Presidents, leaders in Congress and other distinguished personages have been his friends all his life. He has a sweeping familiarity with the personalities and incidents of two generations of public life, and his memory for acquaintances is astounding.

The other day he called without hesitation the name of a man who returned after 17 years absence, and the man had been merely a congressman's secretary.

Operations Reduce Insanity Effectively

According to Report To Women Voters, Illinois Seeks Law Permitting Operations.

St. Louis, Mo., April 21.—A report showing effective reduction of the number of insane in the United States by sterilization operation was submitted to the National League of Women Voters here.

The report was made by Dr. Francis C. Blanchard, Wheaton, Ill. Illinois seeks a law similar to that of other states which would permit sterilization operations.

The United States in 1903 had 67,000 defectives, 201,000 in 1913, 400,000 in 1921, Dr. Blanchard said. This is a proportionate decreased when it is contrasted with population increase, the report showed.

Dr. Blanchard report contained the opinions of physicians, state superintendents of insane asylums, and others in support of sterilization of defectives and insane persons. The operation is not permitted without consent of relatives or family, in the majority of states, the report pointed out. Statistics on the number of operations performed in various states is also given.

Great mental and physical improvement resulted in the majority of instances, according to Dr. Harry C. Sharp of Indiana. Dr. D. O. McCray secretary of the Board of Public Welfare for Kansas, reported "the superintendent is of the opinion that the operation is of marked benefit, especially to the women patients."

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

In yesterday's chapter, AUDREY MORTON has seen her guardian, HARRY MORTON, with whom she is deeply in love, in a cabaret with a wild party. Overhearing him make an appointment for the place, she had asked JOHN PARRISH, Morton's secretary, to take her there.

Word comes at the end of yesterday's installment that Audrey has not slept in her room after the visit to the cabaret.

Morton himself, wealthy, attractive to women, unmarried, has been a mystery to the gossips of Springfield for the fifteen years he has lived there with his adopted daughter. Maintaining an expensive home in Springfield, he also maintains an apartment in Kansas City, dividing his time between them.

In an effort to divert Audrey's love from himself, he has been seen much in the company of NONA, a Kansas City stage girl, who also loves him, and has urged the company of young Parrish upon his ward.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

A hurried inspection of Audrey's rooms showed that she was gone—that she had been gone since the night before.

Her dainty ribboned nightgown still lay upon the bed, where her maid had left it in the evening. The bed was unrumpled. The satin mules stood neatly side by side at the foot of the bed, undisturbed.

Morton ran into the little study which lay behind the bedroom. It was the apartment in which Audrey wrote her letters. He glanced hastily over the bed. There was no note for him.

The doors of the closets in her dressing-room all were ajar. Hurriedly he ran his hand over the ranks of dresses, which hung neatly on their hangers from brass rods. He saw that her fur coat was there, but that a gray traveling coat had been removed. A sober little frock which she wore around the house also was missing, and so was the dress in which she had come from Springfield two days before.

"She took only what she could carry in her hand bag," Morton said to the butler, who stood helplessly behind him.

Morton's face was pale, but his movements were quick and certain.

"You know that infernal young ass that just went out of here?" he snapped. "Get him on the telephone at the office, and tell him to come back here right away. As soon as you have done that, get my office in Springfield on the phone."

As the butler hurried down stairs, Morton closed and locked each of the three rooms that comprised Audrey's suite.

"Nobody is to go in there until Miss Morton comes back," he told the trembling maid who was standing in the hall.

Quickly he ran to the lower floor, and, jerking open his desk, wrote two telegrams. One was to the detective in Springfield, whom he had called "George." The other was to his bank in Springfield.

"Call for a telegraph messenger to come," he ordered the distracted butler, who was struggling with the telephone.

"Shall I call up the police?" asked the servant.

"No. Don't want this in the papers." Morton's tone was final, and the butler returned to his argument with the long distance operator.

When Parrish came in, Morton was giving instructions to his office in Springfield in short, snapping sentences. When he was finished, he turned.

"Do you know anything about Miss Morton's whereabouts?" he demanded.

"Me?" Parrish's tone was one of astonishment.

"Yes, you! But I suppose you don't. Anyhow, I want you to get to work. Miss Morton did not go to bed last night. She is not in the house. She has not been in the house since her return here about one o'clock this morning. No—" Morton stopped a sentence that Parrish was beginning—"I know where she was last night. I know all about that. What I want to find out where she is now.

"Find the men who were on gate duty at each of the railway stations last night between midnight and morning. Don't come back here until you find them. Do you remember the dress Miss Morton wore when we came here from Springfield dey before yesterday?"

Parrish remembered.

"Describe her to each of those gatemen. Ask if they saw a girl of that description leaving on one of the night trains. Find out, if possible, if they remember where she went. And for God's sake, man, get a move on!"

Parrish ran out of the door, and Morton, struggling into his overcoat, followed him a minute later.

At his office, Morton called his senior employes into a brief conference. Each of them, started, left the building in varying directions, four minutes later.

They had scarcely gone, when a telegram from Morton's bank in Springfield reached him.

"If Miss Morton comes in we shall telegraph you at once at your Kansas City apartment," the message said.

Another telegram, half an hour later, was laconic.

"Okay," was all it said. The signature was "George."

He remained at his desk all day, and late that night. Telephone messages came at frequent intervals. Now and then a telegram arrived. All were unsatisfactory.

Morton's face was set and his lips were drawn in the lines of stubbornly endured pain, but his voice was firm as he gave directions, and asked sharp questions of those who telephoned, or came to see him.

"Do you know anything about Miss Morton's whereabouts?" he demanded. "Me?" Parrish's tone was one of astonishment.

It was nearly midnight before Parrish called. Parrish's voice was tired, but there was a note of triumph in it.

"She has gone to Sedalia," he told Morton. "One of the fellows at the station remembered her—described her to me after I told him what kind of clothes she wore."

Morton did not pause for any words of thanks. "What time does the next train leave for Sedalia? I'll hold the phone."

In a few minutes Parrish's voice was on the wire again. "We can take the same train she took—which leaves in an hour an a half."

"Get two tickets and a drawing room," ordered Morton. "If you can't get a drawing room, get two lowers, or two uppers. If you can't get any sleeping accommodation, get the tickets anyway."

e hung up and called to the clerks who were waiting in the next room that they could go home.

e had time to go to his apartment and secure a hand bag and suitcase, with a change of clothes and linen.

"I brought you some pajamas, and handkerchiefs, and hosiery," he told Parrish, as they met at the railway station. "Thought you might want them."

Parrish thanked him, and they sat together silently, until the gates were opened for them to board the train.

By good fortune, Parrish had been able to secure a drawing-room, and the two immediately went to bed. Morton lay silently, but Parrish, in the upper berth ,tossed restlessly until almost daylight.

The two men were standing on the car's platform, waiting, when the porter lifted the trap in the floor, and rubbed down the handles of the steps with a cloth.

"The same taxi men probably meet this train every morning," Morton told Parrish. "You inquire of as many of them as you can, and I'll do the same."

Leaving his two bags with a porter, Morton hurried out to the taxi stand, Parrish following him. For ten minutes they asked anxious questions of the drivers who lolled in the seats of the waiting machines.

There was no result. None had seen a man search for Miss Morton at every one of these places, no matter how small. Tell him to get as many men on it as he can. I want a full report within twenty-four hours."

Parrish put in the long distance call, and while they waited for an answer he wrote at Morton's dictation a sheaf of telegrams, giving further instructions to the offices in Springfield and Kansas City and to the members of Morton's households.

"We can get a train back to Kansas City in about an hour," Parrish said, after he had finished his telephone conversation with the detective.

Morton was paying their bill at the desk, when a message arrived for him.

Tearing it open, he read:

"Female claims her name is NONA telephoned that she has important news for you. She says she cannot give this news to anybody but you. She says it is about Miss Morton. Will you send instructions, please. Respectfully."

It was signed by Morton's Kansas City butler.

"Telegraph him that we are coming home," Morton told Parrish.

It was long after midnight when the train, a slow accommodation, finally pulled into Kansas City.

Morton's car was awaiting him. Parrish had thoughtfully seen to that—and they drove at once to Nona's apartment.

She was up, and awaiting them.

"I was pretty sure you'd be here before morning, sometime," she said. She looked at Parrish, who had stayed close to Morton's side.

"Is it all right to talk before him?" she asked.

"He'll do, I guess," Morton said.

"What's this news about Audrey?"

Nona drew from the bosom of her dress a letter. It was addressed to her.

Morton took it, and recognized Audrey's handwriting on the envelope.

Take Care of Your Car— Use POLARINE

One of the reasons why you keep your car in a garage is to protect the body from the elements.

The engine of an automobile is far more important than the body. Yet the engine is often exposed, without protection, to ruinous grinding friction.

The man who allows this to happen, often fails to realize that the oil he uses cannot protect his engine adequately. He does not appreciate that he is to blame for the big repair bills that naturally follow.

The fast moving metal surfaces of the engine must have the protection of a thin film of oil. This film of oil is to the engine what a garage is to the body of a car.

An inferior oil or an oil not adapted to the engine cannot maintain this protective film. It breaks under the strain of heat and friction. When the oil film breaks, the fast moving surfaces are no longer protected. Metal chafes against metal and the vital parts of the engine are ruined. A poor oil is like a garage without a roof.

Polarine—made in seven grades—one of which, adapted to your individual needs—will provide the proper protection for your engine. Polarine is one of the major products of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—perfected after years of scientific research. It maintains its protective film of oil under any and all conditions.

That is the reason Polarine is the perfect motor oil. When you lubricate your car with it you are giving the engine the protection it deserves.

Consult chart at any Standard Oil Service Station, or Authorized Garage. Drain your crankcase, thoroughly cleanse your motor with Polarine Flushing Oil, and refill with the correct grade of Polarine. That's constructive economy.

Community News.

Quite a number of cases of measles are scattered about through our neighborhood and this fact perhaps accounts for the small attendance at the Sunday morning service.

The orchestra again played at both the Sunday school and preaching service. The morning sermon was based on the theme: "Jesus the Light of the World." The regular services were held in the evening.

Rev. Underwood and family were Sunday guests at the home of Mrs. Helen Moore.

Plowing for corn is now the work on the farm. What is needed the most perhaps is one of those million dollars rains for which this community is famous.

The big grader with the tractor was opening up the ditches on our north and south road the first of the week. Now the regular patrol force supplemented by individual dragging will put it in fine condition. Let's all drag.

The date for the third Quarterly Meeting is announced as Saturday evening, May 1. Reports will be expected from all members of the quarterly conference.

Mr. and Mrs. Halley Ford were in Maryville late Saturday evening. Miss Kibbe returned to her school work with them.

A family reunion of the Heflins was held at the home of Mark Heflin last Sunday. Mrs. Brint Embree, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Heflin will leave soon for her new home in California. Tandy Heflin, who has been visiting friends in this vicinity for some few days was present. His home is in Scotts Bluff, Nebraska.

Mrs. King, mother of L. L. King, was visiting in this neighborhood a short time last week. She now lives in St. Joseph.

A unit of the State Library was received last week and the first books loaned from it Sunday. We have some great readers among our boys and girls.

School Notes.

The Senior-Junior play, "Come Out of the Kitchen" was put on to a good house Friday evening, April 16. The audience was liberal with their applause and were well pleased with the offering of the evening. There was not a weak place in the cast, every character coming up to the requirement of the role. A medal for excellence in dramatics was awarded to Miss Mildred Fanning who had a leading part. It is to be regretted that all could not receive one, as all deserved recognition. Some were kind enough to say it was one of the very best plays we have ever given in point of interest and rendition.

Mrs. Ford selected the play and the cast and had general charge over its presentation.

Two more matches remain to be played in the mixed tournament of doubles in first preliminaries. Playing will start at once on second preliminaries with the play behind us, track work will be taken us with renewed interest.

Principal Steiger of the Ravenwood school was present at the play Friday evening and acted as one of the judges in dramatics. Mr. Shunk and Mr. Blakemore were also present.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday will be busy days for our athletes and musicians.

Through the kindness of Mr. Shunk all the faculty had an opportunity to see "The Last Edition" Wednesday of last week.

Sleepy Hilton drove up with a shiny new car Monday morning. Some class! Hot ziggity dog!

Pioneer school is now on the list of First Class schools, the certificate of approval being received last week. It is the intention of the board to bring the others up to the same standard as soon as possible.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, April 21.—Grain prices closed higher on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Fluctuations in all markets held within a narrow range.

Wheat was active throughout the session and closed sharply above yesterday's final figure. The tone was firm despite the irregular price trend early in the session. After opening weak, the local pit gathered strength from Winnipeg, which showed advances all along the line on the reported serious need of rain throughout the Northwest.

Corn followed wheat and closed higher in all deliveries. The market was comparitively quiet. The cash market here was fractionally lower.

Oats closed fractionally higher, apparently in sympathy with other grains.

Provisions closed lower.

DEMPSEY SIGNS AGREEMENT WITH TEX RICKARD.

IN THE LATE SUMMER

Opponent Of Champion Not Named.—Intensive Training Will Start At Once.

Fort Worth, Tex., April 21.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, today signed an agreement with Tex Rickard, New York promoter, to defend his heavyweight championship title with a man of Rickard's choice somewhere in the East in the late summer of this year.

A definite date for the match is to be decided upon by Rickard.

An announcement that Dempsey had signed on the dotted line was made by Tex Rickard and confirmed by the fighter.

"It's all over," said Rickard.

"Yep, we have agreed," put in Dempsey.

Details of the agreement will be made public later in the day, Rickard said. It is understood that no definite opponent for the champion is named in the agreement. These details will be worked out later.

"I am willing to fight anyone that suits Tex," Dempsey said. "I will leave here some time tomorrow for Ashville, N. C. to start training now. I am in good condition but I will start intense training in North Carolina as soon as possible. I will probably reach Ashville on Saturday."

Laughlin did the twirling for the Merchants and H. England was on the receiving end. For Pickering Kenny Swinford and Gumm performed on the mound.

The rest of the Maryville line-up included Brennan at first, Tobin, second; Cain, shortstop; Arthur, third, and R. Mayes, C. Mayes, Kegin, Smith and Fore, outfield.

Teammate of Coach Jones Is Arrested

Alexander Hodges, Former K. U. Football Player Held In New York On Theft Charge.

New York, April 21.—Alexander Hodges, jr., of Kansas City, former quarterback on the University of Kansas football team, member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, who came to New York last week in quest of a career as a writer, is under arrest here today, charged with robbing a restaurant.

Hodges was captured by a patrolman following a chase through the theater district of the city late last night, shortly after a bandit held up a restaurant and seized $240 from the cash register.

The former gridiron star used an imitation revolver in ordering the night manager of the restaurant to turn over the money, according to the police. There were a dozen patrons in the place at the time.

Hodges, it is charged, seized the money, warned the diners not to follow him and jumped aboard a taxicab. He pressed his imitation weapon in the ribs of the driver and told him to "step on the gas." After going several blocks in the taxicab, Hodges jumped out and started to run. He was then captured by the officer.

Hodges was a teammate of Paul R. Jones, State Teachers College coach.
